Librarian's Picks

Law, life, and government at Red River / Dale Gibson. Montreal ; Kingston : McGill-Queen's University Press ; Toronto : The Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History, 2015. 2 volumes.
KEM 165 Gib

From the publisher:

Inhabited by a diverse population of First Nations peoples, Métis, Scots, Upper and Lower Canadians, and Americans, and dominated by the commercial and governmental activities of the Hudson's Bay Company, Red River now Winnipeg was a challenging settlement to oversee. This illuminating account presents the story of the unique legal and governmental system that attempted to do so and the mixed success it encountered, culminating in the 1869-70 Red River Rebellion and confederation with Canada in 1870. In Law, Life, and Government at Red River, Dale Gibson provides rich, revealing glimpses into the community, and its complex relations with the Hudson's Bay: the colony's owner, and primary employer. Volume 1 details the history of the settlement's establishment, development, and ambivalent relationship with the legal and undemocratic, but gradually, grudgingly, slightly, more representative, governmental institutions forming in the area, and the legal system's evolving engagement with the Aboriginal population. A vivid look into early settler life, Law, Life, and Government at Red River offers insights into the political, commercial, and legal circumstances that unfolded during western expansion.

Dancing Gabe : one step at a time / Daniel Perron ; foreword by Mark Chipman. Winnipeg : Daniel Perron & Associates, 2015. 286 pages.
CT 1 Langlois, Gabe Per

From <http://dancinggabethebook.com/>:

He was born in 1963, diagnosed with autism at the age of three, institutionalized at six, and non-verbal until he was ten. He moved back home at eleven, graduated from high school seven years later, and eventually became one of the most recognized and adored figures in a city of almost a million people.

But his story could have been so different, were it not for those who helped him along the way. Every time little Gabe wandered from home, someone brought him back. One cold night, when he wandered away from the institution, someone saved his life. A few years later, he found himself in a special needs class with a very special teacher who eventually brought him back home, to stay, for good, and to thrive. And when he faced bullying, his brothers came to his defence.

Anyone who has attended major sporting events in Winnipeg, Manitoba, has seen Gabriel Langlois—Dancing Gabe—in action, rocking, twisting, hi-fiving, and cheering on the home teams. It's difficult to imagine how, as a child he never liked noise and would put his hands over his ears whenever he heard any noise.

In One Step at a Time, Daniel Perron takes us on a fifty-two year journey, up-close and personal, with Gabe Langlois, his mother Angéline, his family, the many friends, medical professionals, foster parents, and media and sports figures who influenced his life. His story will inspire you; parts will make you laugh, others will make you cry, and still others may shock you.

This book is a unique collage of interviews, excerpts from Gabe's own scribbler, family photos and recent action shots, with many parts told by Gabe and Gabe's mother, and many of Gabe's supporters and biggest fans.

Hear the music, feel his passion, and dare to get up and groove with Dancing Gabe.

Fire canoe : prairie steamboat days revisited / Ted Barris. Toronto : Dundurn Press, 2015. xii, 356 pages.
VM 461 Bar

From the publisher:

The story of steamboating in the Canadian West comes to life in the voices of those aboard the vessels of the waterways of the Prairies.

Their captains were seafaring skippers who had migrated inland. Their pilots were indigenous people who could read the shoals, sandbars, and currents of Prairie waterways. Their operators were businessmen hoping to reap the benefits of commercial enterprise along the shores and banks of Canada's inland lakes and rivers. Their passengers were fur traders, adventure-seekers, and immigrants opening up the West. All of them sought their futures and fortunes aboard Prairie steamboats, decades before the railways arrived and took credit for the breakthrough.

Aboriginal people called them "fire canoes," but in the latter half of the nineteenth century, their operators promoted them as Mississippi-type steamship queens delivering speedy transport, along with the latest in technology and comfort. Then, as the twentieth century dawned, steamboats and their operators adapted. They launched smaller, more tailored steamers and focused on a new economy of business and pleasure in the West. By day their steamboats chased freight, fish, lumber, iron ore, real estate, and gold-mining contracts. At night, they brought out the Edwardian finery, lights, and music to tap the pleasure-cruise market.

Brok Windsor / Jon Stables ; edited by Hope Nicholson. Toronto : Bedside Press, 2015. xi, 258 pages.
PN 6733 Sta

From McNally Robinson:

A Canadian comic book lost since 1946, this is the first reprint of the wild sci-fi adventures of Brok Windsor: doctor, adventurer, and giant.

Dr. Brok Windsor was on an ordinary fishing trip in Lake of the Woods when he finds a lost island hidden behind magical mists. Crashing his canoe on the shores of Chaqua, Brok discovers the powers of the island have changed him, increasing his growth exponentially each night – and without a cure it will shortly kill him! Teaming up with Torgon, the son of the deposed leader of a technologically advanced Blackpaw tribe living on the island, and the mysterious Starra, the imprisoned grand-daughter of an ancient ghost, Brok sets out to find a cure. Along the way he discovers intrigue and treachery, fighting off the gruesome monsters of the island.

Historical atlas of the East Reserve / edited by Ernest N. Braun & Glen R. Klassen. Winnipeg : Manitoba Mennonite Historical Society, 2015. 1 atlas (256 pages).
F 5648 .H35 His

From the Plett Foundation:

Grants from the D. F. Plett Historical Research Foundation helped to support the research and publication of this 256-page exploration of the eight townships of the former Mennonite 'East Reserve', now known as the R. M. of Hanover, and the Scratching River settlement near Morris, Manitoba. The core of the historical atlas consists of early maps of the East Reserve itself, with a chapter dedicated to each Township. The East Reserve eventually contained about 60 village place names, which are each explored through new maps, historical photographs, and supporting documentation including original surveys, homesteader information, aerial photographs, village lands and trails, and information on historical sites. The Historical Atlas of the East Reserve is in a definitive reference volume printed in full colour, in a hardcover, coffee-table book format.
