

How is the apprentice-to-journeyperson ratio changing?

All trades currently use a ratio of no more than two apprentices for each journeyperson (a 2:1 ratio). The department is amending this to a 1:1 apprentice to journeyperson ratio.

When will the regulations come into effect?

Later this calendar year.

Why is the change being implemented?

The Manitoba government supports the 1:1 ratio and this decision follows through on the commitment made. Manitoba is prioritizing quality education and safety of apprentices. This change is being implemented alongside efforts to modernize the apprenticeship system in Manitoba. We will be launching a review to facilitate this important work. The department will be consulting with the Apprenticeship and Certification Board on these ratio changes and the overall review of the system.

How will this affect existing apprenticeship agreements?

The changes in regulations will be coming into effect later this calendar year. In the meantime, the department will be consulting with the Apprenticeship and Certification Board. There may be considerations given for special circumstances, especially for rural and northern Manitoba. More details will follow.

I am an employer, what happens if I cannot employ enough journeypersons to meet the 1:1 ratio requirement?

The Manitoba government appreciates that a transition period will be necessary for employers shifting to the 1:1 ratio requirement and more information about transition supports will be available soon.

Employers will continue to have the option of applying for ratio adjustments or using designated trainers as detailed below:

Ratio Adjustments

Employers who are unable to meet the 1:1 ratio requirement by the implementation date (to be determined) may be eligible for a ratio adjustment. Ratio adjustments permit employers to use a 2:1 ratio for a limited time based on demonstrated need. Additional information and the Ratio Adjustment Application can found here.

Designated Trainers

Employers may employ a Designated Trainer in lieu of a journeyperson to supervise and train an apprentice. Designated Trainers are experienced tradespersons without journeyperson certification. Additional information and the Designated Trainer Application can found here.

Is my trade impacted by this change?

All trades may be impacted by the return to a 1:1 ratio, however, exemptions may be considered on a trade-by-trade basis in the future.

I am in a non-compulsory trade. Does this change apply to me?

Yes, ratios are in place for all of Manitoba's 55 designated trades, including both voluntary and compulsory trades.

I am in my final level of apprenticeship training, does the 1:1 ratio apply to me?

Apprentices in the final level of their training program will continue to be exempt from required apprentice-to-journeyperson ratios.

Will this change impact programming at colleges and other training institutions?

The new regulations will not affect college or training program availability.

Who can I contact with additional questions or concerns?

You can email the Apprenticeship and Certification Board at ApprenticeshipBoard@gov.mb.ca with any questions or concerns about this matter.