P-Days are a measure of useful heat for the growth and development of potatoes. For Manitoba most potato varieties require from 800 to 1000 P-Days to reach maturity.

A 10% risk means that in 1 out of 10 years the number of P-Days would be expected to be lower than the values given on this map.