George W. Simpson does not appear on the list of London employees after 1841. Though not employed by the Hudson's Bay Company, he appears to have had connections with the Company probably through the sugar brokering firm of Scott, Simpson & Co. (formerly Simpson & Scott) which had business dealings with the Hudson's Bay Company and in which he became a partner in 1854. He appears to have moved to Montreal in 1857 or 1858. His correspondence with Sir George Simpson was concerned primarily with financial affairs. He is described as a 'near relative' of Sir George, but his exact relationship to the family has not been determined. (A.5/14,16; A.10/36 - 2 October 1854, William Scott to Hudson's Bay Company; B.134/b/17, fos.72, 89, 114, 291, 766, 793, 806, 829, 843B, 854; D.5, Sir George Simpson's Inward Correspondence - from George W. Simpson, dated London 1841-1845, 1857 and Montreal 1858, 1860)
