UNIT NUMBER:

D.A. THOMAS

AREA OF SERVICE: PEACE RIVER (1924-1930)

Named for Baron Rhondda, a Welsh capitalist developing Hudson's Hope coalfields on whose orders
she was built. (The Beaver, March 1953, pp. 28-32).

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

Construction: Peace River Tramway and Navigation Company (A.12/FT 341/[1], fo. 41).
Builder: Peace River Tramway and Navigation Company (A.12/FT 341/[1], fo. 41).
Dimensions: 175' long, 40' beam.
Number of passengers: Number of crew:
Speed: 16 knots/hour, steam ship.
Plans: no plans in Archives; originals in Peace River Centennial Museum; copies in Provincial Archives of Alberta.
Registered:
Description: A.12/FT 341/[1], fos. 42-43 (N.H. Bacon to Governor, 13 April 1916).
Speed:
Tonnage: 2,000 tons (500 on docks, balance in scows).

HISTORY:

1915-1916, April Under construction by the Peace River Tramway and Navigation Company (A.12/FT 341/[1], fo. 42).
1916, May Expected to be ready for service between Vermilion Chutes and Hudson's Hope (570 miles) (A.12/FT 341/[1], fo. 42).
1922 Laid up (The Beaver, March 1953, pp. 28-32).
1924 Hudson's Bay Company take over and re-launch (The Beaver, March 1953, pp. 28-32).
1930, Spring A spring freshet took her off the sand-bar.
1930 Transferred to Athabasca-Slave River route over the Vermilion Chutes (The Beaver, December 1930, p. 109-110) and dismantled at Fort Fitzgerald (The Beaver, March 1953, p. 31).

MASTERS:

1930 Captain Cowley The Beaver, December 1930, p. 110

BIBLIOGRAPHY:

PHOTOGRAPHS AND DOCUMENTARY ART:

HBCA Photo Collection 1981/28-1203 to 1210 - includes the steamer office for the D.A. Thomas, ca. 1922, the steamer laid up at Peace River ca. 1922-1924, the re-launching 1924, and two steaming on the river, n.d.

REFERENCES:

A.12/FT 341/[1], fo. 42 Athabasca River and Northern Transport, 1897-1917

MICROFILM REELS:

(853)